

Do not limit the internet, do not allow a false free market to dictate our freedoms.

The internet is a public utility and allowing large telecom companies to control the platforms by which we are educated, informed and communicating with each other is unconstitutional and antithetical to everything we stand for as citizens of the United States of America.